EDUCATIONAL and PSYCHOLOGICAL STUDIES

Research, Measurement, and Evaluation: M.S.Ed.

Program Format

The program consists of 30 credits, which is typically completed as ten 3-credit courses. Many, but not all, of the courses are offered in the evening. Given the sequencing of the program, it is often possible for students to complete the program within a 12-month period of full time study. However, many students in the program take two or more years to complete the program on a part-time basis. The availability of courses during the evening allows makes it possible for individuals to complete the program while maintaining employment during the day.
